Dear Laura:

I am writing this letter to commend you on developing the Jakoter Health Organizer. I purchased one for myself and my wife last Spring. We were beginning to have a family and I felt the Jakoter Health Organizer would be useful for the whole childbirth process.

My wife, Melinda, was initially somewhat cynical about its use. She has always bought a calendar at the beginning of the school year and used this "system" for important phone numbers, special events, etc. As the days of the year pass, her calendar invariably becomes filled with notes, phone numbers, and business cards paperclipped to random pages. She has difficulty locating things quickly as her calendar grows thicker and thicker.

At our 20-week check up with the obstetrician in August, we found out that our child would be born with a cleft lip and palate. Though I think the Jakoter Health Organizer is useful for a family with a more routine experience, it has been invaluable to us in dealing with our special situation. The business card organizer is especially helpful with all of the doctors we have had to keep track of as is the pages that allow us to record doctor's visits. Of course, it's also nice to have a pocket to keep all of our bills.

Change has been difficult for my wife. However, the other day, she brought the organizer to a doctor's appointment without me. Now I know she's hooked! Kudos again to you, Laura.

Sincerely Yours,

L. Adam Stock
